A Workable Flying Machine

WASHINGTON, March 13.—It is stated that Professor Samuel Pierpont Langley, the new Secretary of Professor Henry Baird Control of the Smithsonian Institute of the city, which is one of the recognized scientific institutes in the world and under the control of the government has completed a flying machine which he believes [illegible] ble. The machine is a working model. It is not intended to carry passengers. In configuration the body portion closely simulates a mackerel. The backbone is a light tube of what is technically known as "Little metal, one of the many alloys of aluminum and steel. It is fifteen feet in length and five centimeters or practically two inches in diameter. To give rigidity to the skeleton longitudinal ribs are provided.

The engine, which are located in the portion of the frame work corresponding to the head of the fish, are of the double oscillating type. They weigh sixty ounces and develop one horse power the lightest of that horse ever made. The fuel used is refined gasoline and the extreme end of the tail fin is utilized for a storage tank with a capacity of one quart. Before passing on to the boiler the gasoline is volatilized by gas [illegible] gas and coal. There are twin propellers which can be moved at angles [illegible] or aeroplanes, are sector shaped, [illegible] of light frames of tubular aluminum [illegible] covered with China silk [illegible] is 43 in two in the widest part [illegible] 9th of 40 feet from tip to tip. The [illegible] is [illegible] A tubular mast extends upwardly and downwardly through [illegible] of the craft, and from its [illegible] wings of aluminum wire to [illegible] of the aeroplanes and the ends of [illegible] bows. The machine was [illegible] affected to its present design [illegible] in the Smithsonian institution [illegible].

A Falling Flood

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 13.—It is now believed that the water has reached its highest point at this place. Forty families have been driven out of their homes in the flats. Trains are now making their way through with much difficulty. The break in the Detroit, Lansing and Northern track at Portland has been repaired. The ice gorge above Muir has slowly begun to pass and passed down stream. The water at Muir has fallen four inches and is still falling down.

A dispatch from Grand Haven near the mouth of Grand river says the river is rapidly rising and [illegible] are preparing for a flood. The river [illegible] the mouth, but a large field of [illegible] coming down. A factory house near Nortonville was washed away and its occupants narrowly escaped with their lives.

An Ice Gorge Broken

ROSCOE, N. Y., March 13.—The ice gorge in Rondout creek, below Eddyville gave way about 3:30 this afternoon and let a tremendous amount of water down the creek. Many boats were badly damaged by the rush of water and it is thought $100,000 [illegible] will be sustained. The insurance is light.

A Flood in the Hudson.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 13.—The freshet in the Hudson is the highest since 1865. The lower part of the city is under water and steam railroad trains and electric cars are prevented from running. The flood [illegible] about one foot an hour during the night and this morning is 16 feet above mean tide.

A Bridge Missing

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 13.—Report reached here at 3:30 p. m. that the New York Central Railroad bridge at Schnectady [illegible] gone. Many trains are held here.

Edison's Exhibit Destroyed.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 13.—A mile [illegible] of this city the foundation of the New York Central road has been washed away stopping all traffic between this city and Albany on the main line. Passenger trains on the Central are sent around by the way of Troy. No trains are passing over the Delaware and Hudson. All the exhibits which the Edison company were preparing for the World's Fair are practically destroyed. The loss is estimated at over $500,000.

A Prairie Fire

PLAINVILLE, Kan., March 13.—A prairie fire started yesterday in western Rooks county and was driven by a furious gale southeast across Rooks into Ellis county. Nearly everything was swept away in the path of the fire which was several miles wide. The town of Palco was burned except three buildings. The total loss is about $4000.

Sylvester Scannell and Oscar Lilly farmers near Amboy were caught by the fire. The former's clothing was burned entirely off and he will die. The latter will recover. The buildings of Sam Wise, a farmer, were burned with their contents. She is insane.

The Bopra schoolhouse was also burned. The fire ran east across the saline river, and much damage was probably done to stock feed and buildings.

MCKINLEY AND HIS FRIENDS.

It is pleasant to know that every dollar of Governor McKinley's debts will be paid by his friends, and that his own private, as well as that of his wife, will remain untouched. It is equally pleasant to know that the contributions were entirely unsolicited, and that this money was redistributed by administrators of Governor McKinley without the knowledge or consent. The money was sent, mostly in small sums to the trustee of the estate at Chicago, and all that was sent directly to Governor McKinley was promptly returned.

Such action is not only a testimony to the respect and admiration for the public service of the Governor, but it also shows that the spirit of just appreciation and gratitude for public services is not lacking among the American people. The man who finds in it only the material for sneers, betrays his own baseness. McKinley is one of the men whom the American people fully respect and thoroughly trust. They have showed it by their action now, and some day perhaps they will have occasion to show it in a manner even more general and emphatic.

MR. CLEVELAND'S TARIFF PROGRESS.

It has been a matter of some surprise to us to find that President Cleveland's Inaugural Address has been received with so much coolness on the part of Democratic papers, and without much apparent enthusiasm even by the Mugwumpish press. Not all of them seem to understand that he endorsed thoroughly the doctrine enunciated in the Chicago platform that all protection is unconstitutional. It seems to us that Mr. Cleveland's declaration on that point was as explicit as could have been expected from anybody so accustomed to roundabout and platitudinous forms of speech as the President. "When we tear aside," said Mr. Cleveland, "the delusions and misconceptions which have blinded our countrymen to their condition under vicious tariff laws, we but show them how far they have been led away from the paths of contentment and prosperity. When we proclaim that the necessity for revenue to support the government furnishes the only justification for taxing the people, we announce a truth so plain that its denial would seem to indicate the extent to which judgment may be influenced by familiarity with perversions of the taxing power, and when we seek to reinstate the self confidence and business enterprise of our citizens by discrediting an abject dependence upon a governmental favor we strive to stimulate those elements of American character which support the hope of American achievement."

It seems to us that if this means anything at all, it means a tariff for revenue only in the fullest and most extreme sense of the phrase.

In 1887, in his famous one idea message to Congress, Mr. Cleveland was much more guarded in his language. He said then that protection must be extinguished, continued as the source of the government's income, and in a readjustment of our tariff the interests of American labor engaged in manufacture should be carefully considered, as well as the preservation of our manufacturers. "It may be called protection or by any other name, but relief from the hardships and dangers of our present tariff laws should be devised with especial precaution against imperiling the existence of our manufacturing interests."

In the present Inaugural there is no such qualifying phrase. If the message of 1887 was generally recognized as a "free trade" document, how much more so will this Inaugural Address be so regarded?

Democratic platforms have kept pace with Mr. Cleveland in the matter. From [illegible] the Democratic platform of 1884 [illegible] "fair and equitable revenue" of our tariff [illegible] duties alike for the benefit of American and foreign labor."

It was not until 1888 that the party finally placed its tariff squarely and fairly upon the free trade ground by declaring it to be a fundamental principle of their party that the Federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only.

This says the New York Sun, was a deliberate and mighty change and consequently there is in Mr. Cleveland's inaugural address of March 4 1893, no regret tone and no question says for the purpose of deploring it of the doctrine of a revision of the tariff with reference to protecting wages of manufactures.

So far as public utterance goes there Free Trade Democrat and his party have advanced pace for pace in their economic education. Both stood five years ago for a purely revenue tariff which would produce the maximum revenue; both stand now for a tariff for revenue only without any consideration of protection whatever.

Both the President and the party are committed irrevocably to the free trade policy. To draw back now would be a cowardly evasion of responsibility to revise the tariff on protective lines would be to falsify their solemn declarations and stultify themselves.

SOUTHERN INFLUENCE IN CONGRESS.

The preponderance of Southern Senators in the list of chairmanships of the new Senate will afford an excellent opportunity for talk of the brigadiers in the saddle again kind. But the truth of the matter is something entirely different. In most cases the chairmanship of a senate committee is a question of seniority, the member of the majority party having served longest being entitled to precedence.

If the Southern Senators had received all they were entitled to under this rule they would have received the chairmanships of thirty one of the forty Senate committees. That this is so is due largely to the fact that the South has long been solidly Democratic while Democratic supremacy in the North is recent and insecure, but it is also due to the custom prevalent in the Southern States of keeping good men in office year after year. It is especially true in the Senate, that the influence of a State in national legislation is more dependent upon the experience, acquaintance and seniority of its representatives, than upon its population, location or needs. The preponderance of the South in both Houses of Congress out of all proportion to its population, is the natural outcome of its policy in these [illegible]. The States of the North might well learn a lesson here, and practice it to their advantage.

We print to day in full the report of the committee that has been investigating the management of the Printers' Home. The report completely exonerates the present management, and shows conclusively that whatever complaints may have been made are entirely unfounded. Every citizen of Colorado Springs should be glad to know that this institution has been found to be well conducted in every respect, and printers all over the United States may be assured that the money they so generously contribute for the support of their disabled comrades is well and judiciously expended.

One of the very first decisions of the new Secretary of the Interior goes to show that he is a friend of the forests. He has revoked certain permits which were issued for cutting timber on government lands in Montana. The new Secretary of Agriculture is well known as an enthusiastic arboriculturist so that forestry interests are not likely to suffer under this administration.

MR. BRYAN AND THE LIST.

The important nominations sent to the Senate yesterday by Mr. Cleveland are all interesting, for one reason or another.

Mr. Josiah Quincy as Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Quincy was very active almost ubiquitous we may say in partisan labors at headquarters during the campaign. He is a young gentleman but not likely to shrink from any responsibility that may be put upon him.

Mr. Robert A. Maxwell as Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. To the Anti-Snap pers belong the spoils.

General Pat Collins to be Consul General at London. A good American citizen, born in Formoy a good Democrat, a level headed man and suave and tactful enough to make London society forget, if any Irish man can the Fenian invasion of Canada.

The Hon. Isaac Pusey Gray of Indiana to be United States Minister to Mexico with a salary of $12,000. The Hon. Isaac Pusey Gray went to Chicago as a presidential possibility there he encountered the Cleveland boom with the Hon. William C. Whitney in command the Hon. Isaac came, saw and was conquered he felt under the charm of Mr. Whitney's magnetic presence that it was indeed better to be sure of something than be sorry at having nothing at all.

Honor to Mr. Cleveland for living up to any political agreement—bargain is too harsh a word—that may have been made in his behalf by the incomparable negotiator and Fool Killer to whom he owes so much.

Let the distribution proceed, amid general happiness.—New York Sun.

Protect the Forests.

The Attorney General of the State has decided that district attorneys may prosecute persons who steal timber from university lands. No one can be not encouraging in so doing way to prevent the removal of timber from government lands? The government does not care what the timber is taken or not and is not interested. It is the State that is interested. The great industry of the State which is agriculture depends wholly upon the use of the water from the mountains. But if the trees the water can not be held through the irrigating season. Yet there is practically no provision for protecting the trees from being cut by the choppers and burned by the hunters. The State legislature has been making appropriations for protecting game and fish from a source which is only sentiment yet the grand duty of protecting the pine forests is altogether neglected. This neglect will continue just so long as the farmers of the Arkansas valley fail to take care of their water supplies.

Graham's Hero.

Comrade McPherson one of Judge Crooks' old brave Grahamites who at Washington coming into Malvern square every pleasant day and sitting down near the statue of the General. The Judge was with McPherson at Leach Tree Creek and when the former was wounded General McPherson hearing of it at once sent his own surgeon to dress the wounds. The leg was bandaged Graham was put in a litter and the first order of him to be carried back to the temporary hospital in the rear of the line. There was some delay and meantime the fight raged with fatal ferocity about McPherson. When Graham's litter reached its destination the first thing that met his eye was the stretcher bearing the dead General. McPherson had been killed, and his body [illegible] Orleans.—Kirk Field's Washington.

TO HELP COLORADO COLLEGE

Work of the Women's Educational Society Reviewed by Mrs. Slocum.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Educational society of Colorado College held March 11 Mrs. W. F. Slocum president of the society read the following paper:

One of the pleasant features in the life of Colorado Springs is the constant coming among us of new faces and new friends. And because of these who are here to day and whom we are glad to welcome it seems fitting that a brief resume of our work as a society should be given rather than the simple record of the past year.

As the Secretary has told you we organized with the purpose of helping Abo girls in Colorado College and Cutler Academy. Our constitution gives us an unlimited field before us, but have tried to do always what demanded our first efforts. In beginning our work, it was plain to us that very little could be done for the girls till we had a home for them. So we began at once to plan for the Hall, which we presented to the trustees about two years ago, entirely free from debt. This building cost a little over $15,000 and was the gift of several hundred women and a few men who gave them special gifts. This building has proved to be what we anticipated and far more. It is entirely filled it is supporting and it gives a comfortable and attractive home to the girls. Better than all that, under the personal influence at work within it we have good reason to feel that the right foundations are now being laid that will grow into good traditions for the future.

If the College gives in the next two years as it has in the past, there will be needed at the end of that time more than twice the accommodations for the girls that we now have. In other words another hall is needed at once. Its want will probably be very keenly felt at the opening of the next school year. It has been our hope always that the second hall for the girls would come as an individual gift. It certainly seems reasonable to hope that some heart shall be prompted to this gift, as we hope that some one may be moved to give added accommodations for the young men, which are an equally imperative need.

In the Board of Managers we have talked much of the need of more buildings and are very anxious that they shall be secured, but we have decided that at present we shall not attempt to secure a second hall in just the way we did Montgomery Hall. We confidently hope that another will come at an early day and it seems reasonable to expect that through our Society in some way this may come.

The need of scholarships has led us to decide that, for this year we shall make it our special work to interest our friends and give what we can ourselves toward the establishment of these.

The experience of all educational institutions of high standing seems to show unanimously that the founding of scholarships with suitable restrictions is of greatest benefit to the individual students and to the institutions they stimulate to good work and they make possible to earnest young lives, a preparation for their life work that otherwise they would never have.

In this bright and prosperous town with these signs of so much comfort and luxury around us, the need may not be apparent to many which is in our minds when we beg your co-operation in awakening an interest that will be expressed in the foundation of scholarship funds but there is a different phase of life known to many of us and one that tells a story of hope and ambition and struggle and disappointment that moves our hearts and makes us desire to change the conditions that make it to one out of many but of possible achievement instead of disappointment. I have been deeply interested in my own experiences and those that others have told me to find that help was given patiently. He has such an ennobling effect on the character of the recipients. I was asked lately why the giving of aid to students has not the same demoralizing tendency that the giving of money to the many applicants to our charitable organizations often does. The answer is the conditions of the recipients are entirely different. To take financial aid that it may help us to a larger life of useful work to our fellows and to take it that we may spend work are surely as diametrically opposed as two conditions of mind can be.

I can think of no exception to the rule that students who have received help that gives them a place in life for which they were fitted by nature have always repaid it in large measure and in that best of all ways by their own good work and the practical help they have given to others. I know that there always have been and perhaps always will be some who say "if they want an education let them earn it" and thus dispose of a question that is not settled by that answer. By all means let them feel the pressure of making both ends meet and let them know the value of every penny so that luxury and self indulgence are never considered as possibilities to them. But who shall say that the men and women bent on having an education with right ambition that cannot be quenched would better, in every case postpone the years of study till by their labor they have saved enough to make the college course possible?

As a matter of plain economy is it not better for them to be helped into the place in life for which they are fitted by nature and in which they can earn in one year what it would have taken them five to earn without any fitness? Another says, "but these are exceptional cases" and here we heartily agree. It is exceptional cases that should be helped with scholarships and it is the privilege—and sometimes the pain of the faculties in colleges to know of these exceptions.

It is to the knowledge and judgment of the faculty that the awarding of these is, as a rule, given.

Many of us know how many of these "exceptional cases" have lived among us as citizens. Some of us think with heavy hearts, how much richer our individual lives and the life of the community would be to-day, if, instead of extreme privation during their student lives, there had been a greater degree of comfort.

As you have heard by the Secretary's report, the Board of Managers have voted to secure a fund of $3,000 for a scholarship and they [illegible] the co-operation you have always shown, in obtaining this fund. We believe that the securing of it will be the beginning of the foundation of others, and that these will supply a need most keenly felt now by the faculty.

In every effort the friends of the College make now to secure funds for its work, we have the added impetus and inspirement that whatever we raise will be counted toward the $150 000 necessary to secure the $50,000 that Dr. [illegible] of Chicago offers the College. Each contribution to this fund of $3,000 is a direct gift to the $150,000 the Trustees purpose to raise in the near future.

Our membership fees go to form a fund from which we make temporary loans to students. This now amounts to over $800. We wish to have the added help that comes in every way from an increased membership, and most cordially invite all women who can to enroll their names with us. The annual dues are $2 and the life membership fee is $25. There has never been a special effort to secure the latter, but now at the suggestion of the board, I ask if there are not some ladies who can become life members and thus avoid the yearly payment of the $2 and also give our loan fund a substantial assistance.

We have many thoughts of our work, our plans, and that we hope to see carried out.

Nothing could please us more than to give any details of our work to any who are interested in it. I know I can ask for such member of the board when I say this. I have already kept you too long to add more now but I would repeat that the most important work of the society seems to me to be the creating and spreading of a general interest in the higher education of young women. In a system of co education, is this not an excellent way to help the young men indirectly?

What we can do through our own labor and our own purse is limited what we can do by our sympathy and by eliciting the sympathy of others is bound [illegible].

POPULATION OF COLORADO SPRINGS

A. D. 1900 40,000.

There is no reason why the rate of increase will not be as great as for the past seven years. It ought to be greater. The city will then cover three times the territory it does at present.

DOUBLE INVESTMENT

That in seven years the value of every foot of ground in and around the city will have doubled? Well! that is better than 10 per cent compound interest. A superb investment! Colorado Springs real estate is the best investment you can strike. It has always paid good dividends.

My Dear Miss Herold

I find your face treatments delightfully pleasant and invigorating and in connection with your skin foods and tonics the improvement to my complexion is wonderful When I began the treatments I was a martyr to neuralgia, my face being dreadfully swollen The aching has entirely disappeared, and I have not felt the pain or heaviness in my head since the second treatment I take great pleasure in recommending to my friends this delightful method of restoring and preserving the complexion

Sincerely yours,
MRS G G SYMES

From The Denver Republican.

"Nothing succeeds like success." This is especially true of Miss S N Herold, whose name has become a household word in fashionable society, through the success of her methods for enhancing woman's beauty She treats successfully all blemishes of face and form while her freely given advice is of incalculable benefit to every lady Her methods are popular because they are strictly hygienic They have received the highest recommendations from many of our physicians, and she has under treatment at present the wives of several prominent physicians of this city Her elegant parlors in the Tritch Block are the most popular resort in Denver for the elite of social circles

Profitable and Safe.

Whether the times are good or bad, inside business properties in this city always yield good incomes and advance in value at the same time. They have plenty of room for further advances in value, for if buildings of one and two stories will yield an income of ten per cent. on values, buildings of five and six stories will pay even better. We offer for sale a fine Tejon business property that is leased for a term of years to a reliable tenant, and the rents pay ten per cent. on the price asked. The property is offered one tenth cheaper than any similar property in the same location, and is worthy the attention of any capitalist who desires a safe, sure and permanent investment.
